

The Center for Independence of the Disabled in New York (CIDNY) is a leading organization promoting the full inclusion of people with disabilities in New York City. Founded in 1978, we now serve more than 50,000 individuals with one-on-one assistance.

We advance the civil rights of people with disabilities, organize for change, and develop new leaders. We educate people with disabilities about their rights and the public about disability literacy to reduce stigma. We help people with disabilities develop their own road map to meet goals they have identified to better their lives. We offer benefits advisement, enrollment, navigational assistance and problem solving help related to housing, health, food, transportation and other services. We help individuals in transitioning home from institutions and youth transitioning to adult life. We are a disability-led organization, the majority of our Board and staff are people with disabilities.
